ALL THE WORLD.

All the world is full of children,
Laughing over little joys,
Sighing over little troubles,
Fingers bruised and broken toys,
Wishing to be older, larger,
Weeping at some fancied woe;
O, the happy, hapless children!
Still they come, and still they go.

All the world is full of lovers,
Walking slowly, whispering sweet,
Dreaming dreams, and building castles
That must crumble at their feet;
Breaking vows and burning letters,
Smiling lest the world shall know!
O, the fooling, trusting lovers!
Still they come, and still they go.

All the world is full of people,
Hurrying, rushing, pushing by,
Bearing burdens, carrying crosses,
Passing onward with a sigh;
Some there are with smiling faces,
But with heavy hearts below;
O, the sad-eyed burdened people!
Still they come, and still they go.

A WILD RIDE.

Before I begin my story I must tell you that I am a commercial traveler, born and bred, so to speak, to the business.

I have my wits about me, and, as I often happen to have a good many valuable articles also, I have need of them.

I am an Englishman—English to the back bone—and live on roast beef, bottled ale and old port wine. I am one of the men who don't dream and don't fancy.

When I see a thing I see it. When I hear a thing I hear it. And what I saw on one particular occasion I mean to tell you.

You will not offend me if you doubt it.

Nevertheless, I shall, as I said, tell the story.

It was in the year 18—, and the month was May, and the place was England. I had left London five days before, and now I was miles and miles away from it, in the very heart of the country, traveling toward a little town where I had business. It was an old-fashioned inn, and the people were kind and obliging.

Travelers did not often stop at that inn, I suspect, for they were as particular about my meals as though I had been a prodigal son come home for the holidays.

They killed the fatted chicken for me and made much of me altogether; and to crown all, as the train did not stop in time to take me on, as I wanted to go, and as it was only a matter of five miles or so, what did the landlord do but hunt up a rusty old coach that was tucked away in the coach house, and ordered his man to drive me over that evening. It wasn't an extra, mind you. It was sheer good will. So I shook hands all around, and remembered the chambermaid and the waiter with half a crown each, and off I rode. It was getting dark fast, and the road wound away among the hills in a very romantic sort of a way; why, it made you think of ghosts, if you were a commercial traveler.

"Here's the place,'" says I to myself, "where the old gentlemen of the road would like to have met me and my black bag fifty years ago,"

A hundred years ago, anyhow, I would not have felt as safe as I do now.

Just then the coach came to a sudden pause.

"Hallo," cried I out of the window; "what's the matter?"

"It's more than I can tell, sir," said the man. "Black Jane has turned sulky; she won't move one step."

With that he began to shout and crack his whip, I, with my head out of the window, watching him, when suddenly the beast started off like mad, and I drew in my face and saw I had company.

While the coach was at a standstill a lady and gentleman had slipped in.

They sat on the seat opposite me, and though it was an intrusion I had not the heart to find fault, for a prettier pair I never saw in my life.

If he was twenty-one years, it was just as much as he could be, and she was not seventeen.

I have seen a pair of china lovers on the mantle-piece the perfect image of what they were, as pretty, and dressed much the same.

His hair was powdered, and hers, too. She had on a yellow silk, lower in the neck than I would like a daughter of mine to wear it, and her arms would have been bare only for her long kid gloves. She had pearls in her ears and on her throat, and she had just the most innocent face my two eyes ever rested upon. As for the boy, he had a chocolate velvet coat and white silk stockings, and lace ruffles at his wrists. And they had one large cloak—his, I fancy—cast about the two of them, though it drooped back a bit as they sat down.

"Two young folks going to a fancy ball, perhaps," said I. "and just took a lift on the way."

And I touched my cap to them, and says I: "Fine evening, sir."

He did not answer me, but she looked at me and stretched out a little white hand.

"Oh, sir," she said, "look out at the back of the coach, I pray you, and tell me if he is gaining on us."

I looked out of the window.

"There's a man on horseback riding up the road, said I, for I saw one.

"Oh, heavens!" said she.

"Courage, Betty?" said the young fellow. "They shall never part us."

Then I knew it was a runaway match.

'I see how it is," cried I, "Keep up your heart young man. If the young lady likes you, she'll stick to you through thick and thin. I'll do my best to help you."

"Oh, heaven!" she cried again. "Oh, my darling, I hear the horses' feet. There are more of them. Oh, sir, look; tell me,"

I looked and saw many armed horsemen following swiftly.

"Closer to my heart, Betty," cried the young man. "My beloved, they come."

He drew his sword.

Among other things he wore a sword.

I pulled my pistol from my pocket.

We all stretched our heads forward, and at that moment the coach turned a rocky point of the road, and I saw we were on the margin of a precipice.

All the time Black Jane had kept up her furious speed, and I saw we were in danger.

"Have a care!" cried I.

"Faster!" cried the young man.

Suddenly there came a jolt and a scream from the young lady. I heard him say, "At last we die together."

And the coach lay flat on its side—not over the precipice, but on the edge of it.

A man is a little stunned by a thing like that.

When I climbed out of the window and helped old Anthony up with the coach, and coaxed Black Jane to quietness, I remembered that no one else got out of the vehicle, and I looked about in vain for my pretty lovers. They were not there, nor were there any signs of the troop of horsemen I had seen dashing up the hill. They could not have passed us in the narrow path by any possibility.

"We ran a chance for our lives, master," said Anthony. "Yet I am called a good driver, and Black Jane is the kindest thing I ever saw in harness. Thank God for all His mercies. It's a strange thing we did not go over the cliff."

"But where did they go?" I asked.

"Who?" said Anthony.

"The two lovers—the pretty creatures in fancy dress. The people who were after them—Where are they?"

"Where—" began Anthony. Then he turned as pale as death. "All good angels over us!" he cried. "We have ridden with Lady Betty. It's the 10th of May. I might have known better than to try the road to-night. Protect us all. Yes, we've ridden with Lady Betty."

"Who is Lady Betty?" said I. "As pretty a creature as ever I saw, at all events. Who is she?"

Old Anthony stood looking at me and shaking his head.

"It's an old story," he said. "Book-learned folks tell it better than I. But a hundred years ago and more, on this blessed night, my Lady Betty Hope, the prettiest lady, ran off from a country ball with her father's young secretary."

"They put one cloak over their heads, and an old servant drove them, knowing it was worth his life.

"But before they had gone far, behind them came her kinsfolk, armed and ready for vengeance. And when they reached this point they saw that all was over.

" 'Better die together than live apart,' he said, holding her close. Then he called out to the servant, 'How goes it?'

" 'All is lost, sir,' said the man. The horses can't hold up five minutes longer.'

" 'Then drive over,' said he.

The man obeyed orders.

"But ever since that night, sir, as sure as the 10th of May comes around there's plenty here that will tell you that whoever drives a coach past this road after nightfall won't ride alone.

"There's nobody that remembered the night would do it for a kingdom, but I forgot. I'm getting old, and I forget things whiles; and so we've ridden with Lady Betty."

That's the story old Anthony told me, and what went before is what I saw and heard. I'm a solid, sensible man, but facts are facts, and here you have em.

I want to Smoke.

As the Pacific express train coming east on the Central Road reached Ann Arbor the other day there were many to get off and on, and there was the usual hurry and confusion. Among those getting aboard was a little old woman about 60 years old, who secured the assistance of the brakeman and drew herself up the steps of the smoking car.

"This way, madam—this way," called the official as she laid hand on the door of the smoking car; but as she paid no attention he continued:

"Hold on, madam—that's the smoking car."

"Wall, don't you 'spose I've traveled enough to know that?" she queried as she whirled around. "I guess I know where to go when I want to smoke!"

And she entered and sat down, filled her old clay pipe, borrowed a light, and was soon puffing away in the greates contentment.

"WELL, Andrew, have you worked hard at school to-day?" "Oh, yes, mamma; look at my hands." And in fact the little fingers were all black with ink. "How can you get so inky writting?" "Oh, it wasn't writing; it was stuffing paper balls into my inkstand."

Touched his Vanity.

A dark-eyed beauty, with a mouth like a mule's ear and a nose like a sugar-cured ham, a saddle-colored complexion, and something sweet and assuring in her demeanor, walked into our den the other day and bearded us.

"I want to to see the gentleman who edits this paper," said she.

We pointed ourselves out.

"I lecture on temperance," said she, "and let me assure you that I just tear the life out of the whiskey subject every time I throw my jaws apart."

"Indeed!"

"True as gospel, and the way I get in my work on the tobacco subject would tickle the heels off your boots"

"You seem to be a kind of female Benson," we ventured.

"Worse than that. If Benson and Gough both boiled down and copper distilled, they would't do to travel on the same train that I do. And, besides that, I am naturally a literary character. I don't mind giving the thing away to you, for you seem to be a square man, but I am the author of 'Beautiful Snow.'"

"You are?"

"Yes I am. I write like a mule kicking, and the publication of my lecture would make the fortune of any half-starved editor in Arkansas."

"I have never consented to have my lectures published," continued she, "but I don't care if you give a report of it, provided it don't extend over two column. Give me ten dollars—five now and the other five after it is delivered—and its all right. Here is the copy for the report, so you won't be troubled."

She laid down a pile of manuscript, and looked at us in a superior kind of a way that seemed to say: "You havn't got five dollars."

Now if there is anything that makes us mad it is to insinuate that we are not wealthy, and as, strange to say, just at that moment we happened to have, for once in our life, a whole five dollar bill all at once, we pulled it out with a lordly air and handed it to her.

She took it, smiled, bowed, and retired.

The next morning our beloved Mayor said:

"Ellen Arabella Smythe, you were very drunk and disorderly last night, but as your little rest in the cooler has seemed to bring you to repentance, I will let you go, provided you leave town in one hour."

As she walked down the railroad she looked up at the office window, and spying us, squealed:

"I will send you a few notes from my next pount. You can remit at your leisure."

The St. Gothard Tunnel.

The St. Gothard Tunnel, nine and a third miles long, pierces the Helvetic Alps, and forms a link in the St. Gothard Railway, connecting the Swiss railways with those of Upper Italy. It exceeds the Mont Cenis Tunnel in length by 8,856 feet. The northern end of the tunnel, Goeschenen, is 82 feet from the southern end of the station platform, situated 3637-5 feet above the sea level, and 2,204 feet above Lake Lucerne. From this point the line rises with a gradient of 1 in 171 for 24,600 feet, then with a gradient of 1 in 1,000 for 4,428 feet, where it reaches the highest point of the tunnel 3,785 feet above the sea. Then after a length of 1,279 feet it descends with a gradient of 1 in 200 for 3,870, when the gradient is reduced to 1 in 500 for 13,792 feet, which brings it to within 984 feet of the platform of the station at Airolo, situated 3,755 feet above the sea, and 3,109 feet above Lake Majeur. The normal width of the tunnel is 24 feet 11 3-16 inches at the level of the rails, and 26 feet 3 inches at the height of 6 feet 6 inches above the rails. The height of the tunnel is 20 feet; the roof is semicircular. The floor of the tunnel is formed with a fall of 2½ per cent from each side toward the center, and at the lowest part is a drain 21¼ inches deep. Up to the level of the top of the railway sleepers the floor is filled with ballast. The nature of the revetment varies with the rock traversed. In addition to the main tunnel there are fifty-two subsidiary tunnels on the line, having a total length of 17 miles, and 64 bridges and viaducts. Of the entire length of the St. Gothard line 17 per cent is tunneled and 1 per cent bridges and viaducts. The main tunnel carries two lines of railway, 4 feet 8½ inches guage.

Objects of Interest in India.

One of the principal objects of interest in India to the stranger is the temple of worship. You can enter and witness their worship of the various idds with which their temples are adorned, and to which they are consecrated, by paying a trifle to the usher. He will then take you to every point of interest, and explain to you the meaning of what otherwise would seem a senseless devotion. He will show you also the other temples and instruct you in their peculiarities and the weird legends concerning them. Near one of the temples is the old car of Juggernaut, upon which the poor victims of long ago used to be broken, and under whose ponderous wheels many a wretched victim has been crushed to appease the anger of the gods

Among the other points of interest is the river Ganges, worshiped as sacred by the natives, and called by them the goddess Gavga. Pilgrimages are made to particular places on its shores, ablutions performed, the dying exposed, the dead thrown in, infants frequently sacrificed. The river is replete with interest from its source to its mouth. Rising as it does among hills of eternal snow in the Himalaya mountains, and sweeping down a distance of 1500 miles to the Bay of Bengal, where it forms the most extensive delta in the whole world, making and unmaking yearly thousand of acres of ground. According to an ancient legend this delta was formed by the god Siva, who, squeezing the water through his hair, let it run down through his fingers, thus forming the innumerable streams that divide the delta. This delta begins at a distance of 200 miles from the sea, forming a perfect wilderness of creeks and rivers, and during the wet season is almost entirely inundated. It is navigable from Hurdwas, but above Cawnpore only for river crafts and passenger steamers, but below Allahabad for large vessels. A large amount of traffic is conducted on its waters. The Island of Elephants derives its name from the gigantic stone figure of an elephant which formerly stood upon its shores. It is situated in the harbor of Bombay, seven miles from the city and contains several very remarkable ancient cave temples cut in the rock and adorned with numerous sculptured figures of the Hindoo mythology. The largest of these cave temples is 133 feet long, and is supported by twenty-six pillars. The island is six miles in circumference, and always of interest to travelers.

Taurus in Traces.

The bull is both playful and pugnacious. When confined in a stable and fed as usually fed, to look nice, both of these characteristics are stimulated. A bull plays hard; is rough in his manners. This is well enough when bull meets bull, but when the playful propensity is exercised toward his keeper, as it often is, it is dangerous. A toss of the head by way of a gambol or exercise may kill a man, and then again a bull who has been pampered doesn't feel like stopping, and is very liable to continue his gambols. A large number of the injuries from bulls are due to these bullish propensities, which are increased by the treatment which they receive. Instead of being kept confined in stables, like prisoners in cells, bulls should be made to work. When young they should be thoroughly broken and kept in subjection, and be taught to mind at the word. They are capable of performing hard work, which would not in the least injure them, but would make them better sires than when kept in an unnatural confinement. A bull and an ox may be worked together, or two bulls, or a bull may be worked singly. I have known them to be used in all these forms, and a single bull, with a collar made to fit his neck and a bit in his mouth, with reins attached, to do as much hauling, attached to a boat or cart, as a pair of horses. Thousands of dollars are wasted annually in the shape of useless bull fat and muscle. Bulls are usually kept too fat, especially thoroughbred ones, which stimulates them to be restive and ugly, or at least not so easily managed. With a ring in a bull's nose, and broken to lead, it is a very easy matter to bring him to work in the yoke. I have known a pair to be hitched up and taken to the field at once, led by the nose, put to work drawing stones without any trouble whatever. They will soon learn to follow the driver without any leading, and thus really become a serviceable team. Bulls thus handled, with plenty of work, will rarely do any injury to persons. A bull will live on coarse fare, and on this account makes a cheap worker. He can be made to do more than earn his keep, besides being less dangerous. His stock will be better, and he will be a surer getter. For rough and tough places a bull team is just the thing, as there is no danger of their being injured, and they will save the risks to the horses. Less grain will be required for the horses if the bull is made to do a part of the heavy work. Exposure to storms won't hurt him, which often brings sickness to horses. Better slaves than pets.

Our Horses in England.

What is the moral to be gleaned from this unusual excellence of Foxhall, asks an English paper? We must not forget that, although the Americans began importing English thorough-breds as far back as the commencement of last century, they did not seriously address themselves to the task of raising blood stock until after the great civil war, which ended in April, 1865. That within 15 years they should have been able to produce a Foxhall speaks volumes for the soil, water, and climate of Kentucky; and during the next 20, 30, or 50 years we expect that many as fine, or perhaps even finer, horses will be raised thein Western hemisphere. But it is probably due to English air, food, training, and riding that Foxhall is now what we saw him to be Recently It is not disputed that the blood of our English brood mares is purer than that of their American sisters, whose pedigrees in many cases "end," es the phrase runs, "in the woods." But, as a climate in which thoroughbred foals may be dropped to advantage, we do not believe that anything more favorable can be found upon earth than the United States to the south of Mason and Dixon's line. When Richard Brinsley Sheridan was buried in Westminster Abbey with splendid pomp and ceremony, although bailiffs struggled to tear the last blanket off his body while the breath was still in it, a witty French wag remarked that "France was the place for a man of letters to live, and England for him to die in." Foxhall, in the same manner, has been fortunate in the place of his birth, and in that of his training. The Kentucky grass is the most nutritious in the world, but the English and Scotch oat far transcends the oat of the United States. In the management, training, and riding of thorough-breds our horse-loving cousins are still in their infancy, and Mr. Keene may well thank his stars that he sent Foxhall to England to be trained. The Grand Prix, the Grand Duke Michael Stakes, and the Cesarewitch have set the Kentucky-bred colt upon the very highest pinnacle of equine glory; and it is a singular fact that, while Blue Gown, the best horse of this day, was in course of transportation across the Atlantic, at the bottom of which he now lies, Mr. J. R. Keene was at the same moment in possession of an American colt who within a year was destined to show himself equal, if not superior, to Sir Joseph Hawley's sturdy little Derby winner.

Go no Further.

There are no flies or mosquitoes at the White Sulphur Springs, Virginia, but there are plenyt of snakes in the outlying neighborhood. The mountains are filled with copper-heads, rattlesnakes and adders. There are no desirable walks and drives abont there. The majority of visitors keep within the 800 acres known as the White Sulphur reservation. The other day a mountaineer brought in two huge rattlesnakes. He had them in a wooden box with a glass top. They rolled, hissed and struck at visitors who bent over the box, greatly to the terror of the children who crowded about the owner of the snakes. One colored man expressed great fear that the snakes would get out and bite some one. "That would be all day with them, I guess, said he. "Oh no!" said the mountaineer; "a rattlesnake bite doesn't amount to nothin'."

"It don't?" said a visitor.

"No," said the mountaineer; there is not a man up in our pearts but what has been bit by rattlers a good many times. It is easy enough to cure the bite."

"How!"

"Some put on turpentine. That draws the pizen out. Jest put the mouth of a bottle filled with turpentine on the wound and the pizen will drop out and make turpentine green. Some, however, kill the snake and bind a piece on the bite. That drops the pizen out. There is a man up our way, however, who never does nothin' when a rattler bites him. He has been bitten three times, The bites kind a swell up, but after a time the swellin' went away again."

"Did he say he did nothing to cure the bites?"

"Yes."

"He must have lied."

"He is a preacher, and—"

"Enough—you need not go no further."

The mountaineer says that the worst snake in the mountains is the copperhead. It gives no warning, is often inclined to be aggressive, and strikes quickly and surely. Its bite is much more deadly than that of the rattlesnake, There is a den of snakes at Cool Knob, a station some thirty miles from here, where there are thousands of snakes in a great cavern that no native has ever been bold enough to approach, to say nothing of exploring.

Anybody Sick.

Recently Mr. Sarsaper told his wife one morning that he had got about tired of buttering his bread with a spoon, and that day he sent home a refrigerater. It was a beauty and he felt prond of it. So much that he had a good deal to say about it at the store.

"I suppose you have to put ice in it, don't you?" inquired one of the clerks.

"Certainly," said Mr. Sarsaper; "but then it takes very little. It's an improvement on all others ever made. Full of little boxes and places for all sorts of things. Keeps everything seperate—meat, vegetables, milk and so on—without any mixing up. It makes hot weather so much more comfortable, Bob, to pull up to the table, and find every nice, cool and crisp, instead of limp. sour and slushy. We wouldn't be without it again for any money. I wish you would run in and look at it Bob, the first time you're going by. It's a curiosity, and I know you'll get one as soon as you see it. Don't bother about ceremony— run in at any time."

About two o'clock one morning Mr. Sarsaper was awakened out of his slumber, that always keeps company with an easy conscience by his wife poking him in the ribs, and calling on him to hustle out and see what the matter was. The doorbell was jingling like all possessed.

Mr. Sarsaper crawled out of bed, and, after banging his nose on the door-post until the blood started, giving himself a black eye against the corner of the mantel, and falling down over pretty much everything in the room, he finally made his way to the front part of the house, threw up a window, and peered out into the wet and mucky gloom.

"Who's there" he demanded, looking dawn at the top of an ummbrella.

"Me!" came in a thick voice from the under side of it.

"Who's me?"

"Bob."

"Oh!" it's you is it? What's the matter, Bob; anybody sick?"

"Oh, no. You see I've been out to Sodamsville with some of the boys to help institute a lodge, and I'm just getting back. I happened to think about that refrigerator of yours as I was going by, and so I thought I'd stop in and see it, without ceremony as you said. Come down and let me in. I'm in a hurry to get home, and can't stop but a minute."

Mr. Sarsaper said something that would bend the types double if we should undertake to print it, and slammed down the window. He remarked to Bob the next day that for downright coolness his refrigeator was a bake oven compared to the prank practiced on him.

The Wrong Boy.

In an alliged "horse thief" case there was quite a lettle sensation. The accused was John Campbell, a young stripling of perhaps eighteen, and not a bad looking boy at all. The principal witness for the prosecution was a young gir who claimed to have seen Campbell in the stable. Just before she took the stand counsel for the defendant managed to get another boy, very much resembling him, into the seat next to Campbell. After a few questions the wily lawyer looking all the time at the other boy, ask the witness if she could positively identify the prisoner. She must be very careful, and make no mistakes, etc.

Looking over the seat, she said; "There he is, there.

"You are quite sure, now, are you?" said the lawyer.

"Oh, yes, sir, quite sure," was the confident response; "Why I know Johnny Campbell well."

"This is my case," exclaimed the lawyer, and Court, Jury, audience and all saw that it was. In her confusion the young lady had identified the wrong boy.

Counsel for the State immediately threw up the case, and the Court room was convulsed with laughter, during which young Campbell withdrew in the company of his relatives and friends.

Polar Exploration.

The editor of Nature thus comments on the effort now making to carry out the scheme of the late Lieutenant Weyprecht, the discoverer of Franz-Josef Land, for the establishment of a ring of observations around the North Pole: Many Arctic authorities are of opinion that the days of great and expensive national Polar expeditions are past, and that the money thus spent would be put to much better use by being devoted to the carrying on of a continuous series of observations, At various points around the Arctic area observatories will be established as near as practicable to the Pole, where a continuous series of observations will be taken, according to a common, prearranged plan. These observations will be connected with meteorology in all its departments, with terrestrial magnetism the aurora borealis, atmospheric electricity, the movements of the ice, biology combined with geographical exploration where practicable. After a year or two of such observations we may then be able to compare and coordinate Polar conditions with those which prevail in regions further south. A vast array of data must necessarily be accumulated that cannot but be turned to valuable account by science.

Our knowledge of the meteorology of the temperate zone can never be complete until we are well acquainted with Arctic conditions, and thus the work to be done at these observatories will have an important practical bearing. Not only so, but it is maintained that it is only when we have the knowledge which will be collected at these stations that we shall be in a condition to send out an expedition for the Pole itself with anything like scientific assurance of success. We cannot but regret, then, that England has no share in the scheme. The countries forming the International Association are Russia, Germany, Norway and Sweden, Denmark, Austria, the United States, and we believe Canada; France and Switzerland lent it their countenance, and Lieutenant Bove's Italian Antarctic expedition is to some extent affiliated to the Association. Stations are to be established on the north coast of Siberia, Novaya Zemlya, Spitzbergen, Jan Mayen Island, the west coast of Greenland, Lady Franklin Bay, and the neighborhood of Behring Straits. The colony for Lady Franklin Bay, sent out by the United States, has already, we believe, reached its destination.

Heart Disease.

When an individual is reported to have died of disease of the heart, we are in the habit of regarding it as an inevitable event, as something which could not have been foreseen or prevented, and as it is too much the habit, when persons suddenly fall down dead, to report the heart as the cause. This silences all inquiry and investigation and saves the trouble and inconvenience of a post-mortem. A truer report would have a tendancy to save many lives. It is through a report of disease of the heart that many an opium eater is let off into a grave, which covers at once his folly and his crime; the brandy drinker, too, quietly slides around the corner thus, and is heard of no more; in short, this report of disease of the heart is the mantle of charity which the polite Coroner and sympathetic physicians throw around the graves of generous people. At a scientific congress at Strasburg it was reported that of sixty-six persons who had suddenly died, an immediate and faithful post-mortem showed that only two persons had any heart affection whatever — one sudden death only in thirty-three from diseases of the heart. Nine out of sixty died of apoplexy—one out of every seven; while forty-six—more than two out of three—died of lung affection, half of them congestion of the lungs, that is, the lungs were so full of blood they could not work; there was not room enough for air to get in to support life. It is, then, of considerable practical interest to know some of the common everyday causes of this congestion of the lungs, a disease which, the figures above being true, kills three times as many persons at short warning as apoplexy and heart disease together. Cold feet, tight shoes, light clothing, costive bowels, sitting still until chilled through after having been warmed up by labor or a long, hasty walk, going too suddenly from a close, heated room, as a lounger or listener or speaker, while the body is weakened by continued application or abstinence, or heated by a long address; these are the frightful causes of sudden death in the form of congestion of the lungs; but which, being falsely reported as a disease of the heart, and regarded as an inevitable event, throw people off their guard instead of pointing them to their true causes, all of which are curable; and very easily so, as a general rule, when the mind has once been intelligently drawn to the subject.

Nevada and New York.

In the recent examination held before the Police Court much interest was manifested by an audience at Reno, Nevada, spectators in the testimony of the various witnesses. One of these hailing from New York, testified:

"I never carried a pistol in my life."

A breathless silence spread over the faces of the spectators, and the lawyers all lookwonderiently at the witness.

"I never owned a pistol in my life."

A faint pitying smile passed over the weather beaten faces of the audience. They had encountered a very hard formation. One of the old veterans leaned over to a short man who had lost his nose at an annual meeting, and whispered: "He's joshin',"

"Jedge's got the drop on him," returned Shorty, shifting someting in his hip pocket.

When the witness, continuing, said, "I dont remember of ever having shot a pistol in my life," there was a considerable exodus to the sidewalk to discuss the announcement.

"I knowed he was a duffer when he took the stand," said the tall veteran.

The famous Riddleberger, repudiationist, duelist, and political adventurer generally, was nominated last week by the Virginia readjusters, republican members of the legislature for United States Senator, and will of course be elected. What an able, brilliant array of statesmen the republican party is sending to the first deliberative body in the world. Cameron and Mitchell, from Pennsylvania; Miller and Lapham from New York; Mahone and Riddleberger from Virginia. Ugh!

Appropos, in speaking of the prospective candidacy of Gen. Beaver for Governor, the Centre Democrat thinks the Democrats of Centre county have two men among them—Adam Hoy, Esq., and Hon. C. T. Alexander—either of whom would be fully as competent for the high position as the gallant general. Just so. That's where the Major hits the nail squarely on the head.

A Pink of a Judge.

Judge Cox, of Minnesota, is on trial before the senate of that state for crimes and misdemeanors. The charges against him are habitual drunkenness and lewdness. There are no less than nineteen articles of impeachment against him, charging specific offences. His defense is that drunkenness and lewdness are not indictable offences, and are, therefore, neither crimes nor misnemeanors for which he can be impeached.

The Governor of Virginia charges the disgrace of repudiation in that state on the federal administration, and there is just where it belongs.

Smashing Insurance Frauds.

A Prominent Company Disbands to Avoid Exposure—Heavy Profits.

Special Dispatch to the Times.

HARRISBURG, December 13.

The Southern Pennsylvania Mutual Relief Association, of Hanover, York county, the oldest of the kind in the State and the most extensive, was dissolved by the Dauphin County Court to-day at the request of the company, in anticipation of a judicial decision ending its corperate existence. The company was represented by Judge Wells, of Gettysburg; Judge-elect Simonton, Senator Herr, Ex-Senator Mumma and J. H. Weiss. The Commonwealth knew nothing of the intention of the company until a short time before the court met and had subpœnaed between fifty and sixty witnesses to show that the business of the association had been fraudulently conducted and that it should be dissolved. The Southern Pennsylvania Insuranse Association had issued policies aggregating $30,000,00 and had received in fees and assessments about halt a million dollars. The books of the company show losses paid over $350,000 and a balance in the treasury of between $40,000 and $50,000. The profits of the officers and directors have been very heavy, exceeding considerably $100,000 in the aggregate.

The hearing in the case against the State Capital Mutual Relief Association, anothor representative mutual assessment company, will begin at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning unless the association should render such a procedure unneccessary by a course similar to that of the Southern Pennsylvania. John H. Weiss, of the Dauphin county bar, has been appointed receiver of the insurance company dissolved today. The receiver will be required to enter $50,000 securities for the faithfull performance ot his duties.

Now and then you hear of a government Republican thief having been arrested, but never of conviction and punishment. The officials at Washington seem to be all "tarred with the same stick" and to bring any one of them to trial would be to expose the rest. There will be no revelations, no trials, no punishment for public robbers as long as the Republican party is permitted to remain in power, and that party will not give up control of the departments as long as perjury, fraud, electoral commissions, and the corrupt use of stolen money will enable them to retain their grip upon the Federal Treasury. Nothing but a general uprising of the people can drive the thieves from their strong entrenchments—nothing but a whirlwind of public condemnation at the polls will restore the control of the Government to the hands of honest men.—Ex.

Hanged from a Balcony by a Mob.

Austin, Nev., December 14.—About halfpast one o'clock this morning a party of masked men forcibly entered the jailer's room in the court building, overpowered the jailer and forced him to give up the keys to the jail and the cell door where Richard Jennings was confined, who, whithout provocation and in cold blood, shot and killed John A. Barret, an old and respected citizen, the night before. Jennings was then taken out and hanged from a balcony over the front door.

Drugged and Left to Die.

Special Dispatch to the Times.

New Haven, Conn., December 9.—Four persons, supposedly negroes, in Ansonia, on Wednesday drugged and assaulted Mary Dowling, aged forty, and left her to die half a mile from the scene of their brutality. Yesterday morning early the woman was found lying on the frozen ground entirely naked, save a torn skirt, which was lashed around her, and a stocking, which was drawn over one foot. Her hair was tossed in confusion about her head and neck and matted with blood and grass, while her entire body, from head to foot, was cut and badly bruised. Her face was swolen so that her eyes were literally buried, while the blood that covered her was frozen hard On all sides were remnants of torn clothing. The grass and weeds looked as though crushed with a heavy roller. She will not live. No one has been arrested.

A DEAD MAN WHO DIDN'T DIE.

The Interesting Experience in the West of a Connecticut Insurance Company.

From the Hartford Courant.

One of the leading insurance companies of this city has just ended its experience with "a dead man who didn't die." In October of last year one Joel Piper, farmer, called on the company's agent at Quincy, Illinois, and took out an accident policy for $2,500, payable to his wife, Almira C. Piper, in case of death. For this he paid $25. He also applied for a life policy for 1,500, and the policy was duly written by the company and forwarded. For this Piper paid $55,73. Thus his investment was $80,73 for $4,000 of insurance. The company heard nothing further until the receipt of a letter from the agent, dated November 1. stating that Piper had been drowned the day previons while in a skiff on the Mississippi with his brothers-in-law, Thomas H. and James H. Bryant. The agent was informed that the party were crossing a small branch of the stream when, in propelling the boat, he lost his balance, fell overboard and was drowned. The company forwarded blanks for proof of loss and in duetime they were filled out and signed by the widow and the Bryants. The latter, as the wittnesses of his death, made a special affidavit that they saw Piper drown.

Nevertheless the comapany was not satisfied that all was square and two St. Louis detectives were told to look into the case. On the 3d instant the alleged drowned man Piper, was arrested near Ripley, Tenn. Piper, Mrs. Piper and the Bryants are in jail at Quincy.

A CHANCE 'FOR VIRGINIA DUELISTS.

Special Dispatch to the Times.

Richmond, December 13.—A bill will be introduced into the Virginia Legislature in a few days, providing for the removel of the political disabilities of quite a number of persons who were engaged in dueling during the recent canvass, as well as several who are charged with having resorted to the code during the political campaign in this State in 1879. Among the persons alleged to be disqualified for this reason are Mr. Riddleberger, Congressman George D. Wise, W. C. Elam, editor Whig; Colonel Thomas Smith, of Fauquier; General W. H. Payne and J. B. Walters.

STRAYED OR LOST.—Two heifers have strayed away from the residence of the subscriber, in Woodward, since the later part of July. They are dark brown, one a little heavier with white spot on either side. Any person finding these heifers is kindly requested to give information to me.

"CHRISTMAS."

To all our patrons, friends and neighbors, we extend our Christmas greeting. May they all enjoy to the fullest extent the happy festive season. May peace and harmony reign in communities, in churches and schools—in every family. May the sweet song of the angels, "GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST, ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN." find a harmonious response and willing echo in every pious heart.

—And now that the campaign is over, would it not be well to call a public meeting and appoint an arbitration with full and final authority to determine who had the heaviest hog? We make the suggestion in the interests of peace and harmony.

—Just please don't ask us any more how "heavy" our shoats weighed. Mr. Wm. S. Maize and Brother Cuff, both experts at the business and good judges of weight, were our butchers, to whom all inquiries on the subject are respectfully referred.

—No paper will be issued from this office next week, neither will there be any job work done for love or money. We have been exceedingly busy all summer and fall and our friends will cheerfully grant us the usual short holiday vacation. Hereafter as heretofore, we will do our utmost to make the JOURNAL a readable and interesting local paper.

—It ought to be bretty generally understood by every man, woman and child in the state that our own General Beaver is to be the Stalwart—Boss—Machine candidate for Governor, next fall. The Camerons say so, Quay says so the rest of them say so, Grow and Cooper must say so; and last but not least—the Philadelphia Times say so about a dozen times over every day.

DONATION.—On the evening of the 19th inst. the St. John's Lutheran congregation of Millheim, led by the Cornet Band, passed a visit to the Lutheran Parsonage at Aaronsburg, and very agreeably surprised the pastor and his family. Dry goods, groceries, flour, produces, a fine portrait of the great Saxon Reformer, and excelent music, were the principal gifts and tokens of favor bestowed on the occupants of the parsonage. The donation amounted to about $35. The undersigned would hereby gratefully acknowledge all the presents received and cordially and sincerely thank the donors for their kindness, as also the band for their entertaining music.

May He who is abundant in goodness richly reward them for their generosity.

AARONSBURG. Dec. 20th, 188'.

ANNIVERSARY.—Sunday the 18th inst. was the 80th birthday of Mr. Emanuel Ettinger, of Aaronsburg. The anniversary was celebrated on Monday following, when a reunion of the family took place. A magnificent dinner was prepared which was enjoyed with a gusto by all present. The following guests shared in the festivities: Mr. Wm. H. Stover, Mrs. Sarah Stover, Maj. R. H. Forster, Mrs. Joanna Forster & daughters, Mrs. Louisa Kurtz & daughters, Mr. L. D. Kurtz, Mrs. Ellen Kurtz & family, Mr. Luther Stover, Mrs. Annie Stover, Mr. C. G. Bright, Mrs. Emma Bright & daughter, Mr. Charles Stover, Mrs. Annie E. Ettinger, Mrs. C. Tomlinson, and, of course, the united Head of this pleasant gathering of relatives. It was an interesting gathering for the twofold reason that it was a birth-day feast and a re-union. It was a serious, solemn occasion, because the thought occurred that such a scene might not be witnessed again on earth; and it reminded one also of the fact that a more splendid and glorious reunion might some day take place in the Father's House above.

MAKING PRESENTS.

The beautiful custom of making presents during the Holiday season is becoming more general every year. The man who does not, according to his circumstances and ability, gladden the hearts of his dear ones at home, with presents, is fast becoming the exception. This is one of the evidences that culture and refinement are advancing, that our civilization is ripening into a higher and nobler type. And yet, the system, if system it may be called, is still very crude and imperfect. It has too much of vanity and selfishness, too little of pure, scriptural charity, in it. The rich make presents to other rich friends, often to "receive as much again" while the poor and lowly are largely neglected, if not entirely forgotten. Friends remember friends only, while those whose humble circumstances forbid them to move in the same social circles, are mostly passed by, as though their well-being, their sorrows and joys, their struggles and sufferings concerned us nothing, at least not so long as we have plenty and to spare.

Our present-making should assume a more practical form. We should remember the poor and needy, the neglected ones of earth, and occasionally cheer their heartswith substantial gifts.

Nor should we wait until they come begging for alms, but go and seek them out in their homes and relieve their wants in season, and as the Lord has blessed us with means.

"He that hath pity upon the poor, lendeth unto the Lord."

—The Centre County Teacher's Institute will meet at the Court House Bellefonte, Monday, Dec. 26th, at 2 o'clock, P. M. The following instructors are expected to be present: Prof. H. R. Sandford, of Middletown, N. Y. Prof. S D. Hillman, of Rahway, N. J., Prof. T. M. Balliet, Supt. of Carbon county, Prof. H. F. Bitner, of the Keystone State Normal school, Prof. J. W. Hestern, and President McKee, of State College.

Interesting papers will be read by some of our own teachers.

A BLASPHEMERS TERRIBLE DEATH.

A startling story comes to us among our exchanges, from Union County, Arkansas, and is said to be as true as it is strange:

That three young men were sitting on their horses in the road, discussing the probabilities of rain from a cloud which was just then rising in the west. The youngest of the group, named John Freeman, referred to the drought and remarked that a God who would allow His people to suffer this couldn't amount to much. As he was speaking this the boys were encircled with lightning and the speaker stunned severely, though his companions were unscathed. Recovering, he renewed the subject, bitterly reviling the Supreme Power. Instantly, a bolt of lightning flashed from the cloud overhead and the young man fell dead in his tracks. Nearly every bone in his body was mashed to a jelly, while his boots were torn from his feet and the clothing from his lower extremities. The body presented a horible appearance, being a blackened and mangled mass of humanity. His companions were stunned and thrown on the ground, but not seriously injured. The funeral of the unfortunate young man occured the next day, and attacted a large crowd, the larger portion of whom were drawn thither by the rumor of the strange events preceding the death of the diceased. When the body was deposited in the grave and the loose earth had been thrown in until the aperture was filled, and while the friends of the dead man yet lingered in the cemetery, a bolt of lightning descended from a cloud directly over the burial place and struck the grave throwing the dirt as if a plow had passed lengthwise through it. No one was injured, but those persent scattered, almost paralyzed with terror. The incident is exciting a great deal of attention—ministers and religious people generally holding that the young man was the wrath of an offended God, while others assert the case was simply a wonderful coincidence, having no connection with causes either physical or supernatural.

News Miscellany.

BEAUTIES of politics: If Heaven were run on the American plan there would straightway be a caucus to see who should be gatekeeper.

A Connecticut deacon refused to pay taxes on his residence, on the ground that, as he held religious services in it every morning and evening, it was by law exempt as a "house of worship." The collectors, refusing to allow his claim, sold the building.

DEALERS in gun powder should bear in mind that they are liable to a heavy fine if found guilty of selling this explosive to minors—those under twenty-one years of age being regarded as infants in the eyes of the law notwithstanding their age.

A WOMAN, FALSELY ACCUSED, GOES MAD.

Special Dispatch to the Times.

READING, December 13.—Mrs. Catharine Gruber, aged forty-six, who resides in the upper section of the city, has become hopelessly insane on account of being arrested on the charge of stealing goods at the Farmers' Market House a few days ago. She had a hearing before Alderman Brownwell, but the evidence adduced was of such an unsatisfactory character that she was discharged. The fact of her arrest so preyed on her mind that she became despondent and is now violently insane. She is the mother of several children, some of whom reside in Philadelphia. It is understood that the unfortunate woman will be removed to an asylum. Her neigbors were surprised at the arrest and declared that a mistake had been made.

MISS REBECCA BATES died at Scituate, Mass., yesterday, aged eighty-eight years. Miss Bates and her cousin, Abbie, were the heroines in the British "scare" in 1812, when the two girls, hidden behind rocks on the beach with fife and drum sounded the roll-call and put to flight several boat-loads of troops from a British man-of-war, who were about to make a landiug. Miss Bates' cousin, Abbie, is still living and is eighty years of age.

DIED.

On the 16th inst. near Penn Hall, Lewis Edmond Grenoble, aged 23 years, 7 months and 26 days.

On the 15th inst. in Aaronsburg Mrs. Catharine E. Philips, wife of Cyrus Philips, aged 24 years, 6 months and 3 days.

"The months of affliction, are o'er,
The days and nights of distress;
We see her in anguish no more—
She has found a happy release."

AGBICULTURAL.

BALKY HORSES.—"Many and varied have been the plans, both kind and harsh, tried for the cure of balkiness in horses, by parties troubled, delayed and provoked in this way. Having had considerable experience in the handling of such horses, I have found the following a good remedy. It is easily and quickly performed and has never so far as I am aware failed to cure.

"Two persons are required for the trial. One should hold the reins while the other fastens a short strap or rope—a halter strap, always at hand, answers the purpose well—just below the fetlock of a fore leg, then going forward, he should pull on the strap until the horse lifts his feet; continuing to pull, the foot will be brought forward and set down a little in advance of the other. The horse thus thrown out of a natural position, will move forward to gain his equilibrium. Another pull will cause another move forward. This may be repeated several times, or until the horse moves without having the foot pulled forward. Usually, the first or second pull will start him. Three or four such reminders at most will do the work. When the start is made it is generally an easy one. Sometimes, however, it has the appearance of the horse being in a hurry to get away from the provoking man with the strap; therefore a steady hand should manage the reins. I have never known a horse under this treatment to kick or to act mean in any other way than to try to run. When he does start off the hold on the strap should be given up. After having gone twenty-five or more yards the horse should gently be brought to a stand and the strap removed. Then try to start him without the strap. If he does not move off at once apply it again. He will soon tire of being thus annoyed, and will give you no further trouble in this way."

AND a few words about seed potatoes. Next spring is certain to see seed potatoes selling from $5 to $10 a barrel, according to variety and quality, and therefore it becomes of the first importance to provide seed this fall when possible. Very many acres were planted last spring on which the crop was so near a complete failure; the fields were never dug once. But on examination many of these fields will be found to have miniature potatoes, which though too small to eat, will answer at a pinch to make a crop from. Indeed, under circumstances very favorable to the potato crop, that is a rich, mellow soil and a cool moist season, seed potatoes no bigger than a common hickory nut have produced good, and sometimes, where the conditions were exceptionally favorable, enormous crops. Accepting these facts, then, as stated, it will pay to go over the fields and dig and store very small potatoes indeed for next year's seed. And where a crop has been made the smallest tubers should be saved and not left in the field or fed to stock, as is the common custom. In dry and hot seasons like the past, which are unfavorable to the growth of the potato small seed should never be used, nor when good potatoes are abundant and cheap; but when they are worth three or four cents a pound and when the season is likely to be a favorable one and both are among the reasonable probabilities for the spring of 1882, it is good economy to save and plant them.

A PLAN FOR DRAINAGE.—Let some enterprising tile manufacturers select careful farmers who own flat lands, and make them something like the following proposition: That the farmer make a careful estimate of his average crops, and the tile manufacturer propose to furnish the tile necessary to drain thoroughly the lands designated in the agreement, the farmer to furnish the labor of putting in the drains at a stipulated price, to be paid out of the excess of crops grown on the land, over and above the average yield before agreed upon, and the tile manufacturer agreeing to take the balance of the increase in four or five crops (as agreed) to cover the cost of the tile. On level lands, where the average crop runs low and the land by nature is rich, it is a safe proposition for the tile manufacturer if the farmer honestly performs his part of the contract. On rich, level lands that need drainage, and need it badly, it will pay twenty-five per cent annually on the investment, and in some instances more.

SETTING FRUIT TREES IN THE FALL.—Notwithstanding the advice often given to set fruit trees in the fall, our observation is against the practice. It works very much like this in most cases: In ordinary lands, when set in the fall, the cold, dry winds evaporate all the moisture from the limbs and trunk, and when the ground is soft loosen the roots in the soil, or if on clay soil the frost heaves them out because the roots have no hold, and the result is a total failure. If the trees must be moved or delivered in the fall we would prefer to bury them totally in dry soil and set in the spring, and should expect better results from so doing; and we apply this also to small fruits, except, perhaps, strawberries, and they should be set early or they also will do better to wait till spring. When the ground is settled and in condition to sow grain, is the best time to plant trees of all kinds, and then, it well put in and cared for the first season, the greatest trouble is over.

FOR profit don't keep old fowls year after year, except for extraordinary merits. Some few old hens are famous mothers, and are worth keeping on that account sometimes. But as a rule work them off in two years or so.

THERE is as much nourishment in one bushel of beans as in five bushels of potatoes.

THE fodder from an acre of corn which yields fifty bushels is equal in value to a ton of hay.

"A very good idea of the purity of silk," says Mr. Lewis Leigh, of New Haven, Conn., "is shown by comparison. Take a piece of ribbon—any pure color, white, pink, gold, or any bright color—an inch or two is sufficient; weigh carefully; then weigh exactly the same amount of silk to be tested, and as much as the latter falls short of measurement with the first or pure silk it is weighted." It is difficult to say why silk should be adulterated at all. The process of producing spurious silks is itself expensive. Competition soon reduces the weighing profits to little or nothing. Honesty in this, as in all other matters of business, is the best policy, and one need only consider it for a moment to be convinced of this fact without looking into the Revised Statutes or the revised edition of the New Testament for a guiding rule. As St. Paul says, there is "a law written on the Gentile heart or conscience," and seen in every-day experience, which emphasizes the fact.

It is a common mistake to suppose that coral when first taken from its watery bed is soft and hardens through exposure. The live coral may feel somewhat slimy in the fingers, but if the animal matter be washed away it is found to be hard. The chief constituent of the whole is carbonate of lime.

"CAN I see the lady of the house?" inquired the peddler. "Well, yes, you can if you ain't blind?" snapped the woman who had answered the bell. "Oh, beg pardon, madame! you are the lady of the house then." "Yes, I am! What d'yer take me for? Did yer think I was the gentleman of the house, or the next door neighbor, or one of the farm hands, or the cat, or the ice-chest?" 'I didn't know, madame, but you might be the youngest daughter." "Oh, did yer? Well, that was nat'ral too," replied the lady of the h. "What d'yer want, sur?" Then the peddler displayed the wares, and when he left that door-step half an hour later his face was full of pleasure and his pockets full of money. He understood human nature and had made a good sale.

"Buckwheat Cakes and the Measles."

When a young husband had gone from home, and with fond solicitude telegraphed his little wife,—"what have you for breakfast and how's the baby?"—he received the brief, suggestive reply,—Buckwheat Cakes and the Measles." We have the report of a case in our midst, not where Measles was in the bill of fare, but where Sciatic Rheumatism confined Mr. J. Dawson, the well-known druggist, to his room for a long period. It was stated to our reporter in the following words: The senior of this firm was attacked with Sciatic Rheumatism December last, and for four weeks could scarcely leave his room. He used St. Jacob's oil, and is now able to be at his place of business, feeling no worse for his recent affliction. The inference is convincing.

A DOMESTIC difficulty: "I'm bigger than you are," consequentially remarked Squibbs boy to little Multiades Marrowfat. "I know it—bigger fool" returned the latter. The conversation was repeated at both supper tables that night and the next morning Mrs. Marrowfat and Mrs. Squibbs were busy plugging up the knot-holes in the back yard fence to cut off all communication between the families.

CINCINNATI courtship custom: "I didn't call because when I passed the house I noticed there was no light in the parlor and I thought you were out," apologetically answered the simple minded Chicago man who had an appointment with a Cincinnati merchant. "Never be such a fool as that again," angrily replied the disappointed pork-packer; "you ought to have known it was only one of my gals I receive ing company."

SAID the teacher: "And it came to pass, when King Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes. Now, what did that mean, children—'he rent his clothes?'" and the boy with a big brother said it was "letting a fellow have the use of 'em for a few dollars, as brother Dave did with his ulster last spring and wishes now he hadn't.

MR. WALTER, proprietor of the London Times, thinks our newspapers are overcrowded with local sensations. Mr. Walter's idea of a spicy paragraph is a three-column editorial on "Agnostics and Agnosticism," but when an American reader is troubled with insomnia he resorts to a more harmless soporific.

Mr. Clarence B. Stoddard, the druggist, informed us that Mr. Louis Hope, a sufferer with rheumatism for a number of years, obtained the greatest relief by the use of St. Jacob's Oil.

HE came home late the other night and his wife woke up and found him with a burning match trying to light the faucet over the marble basin in his dressing room. "James," said, "that is not the gas burner." "I know it now, my love", he replied, unsteadily; "fact is, I've been overworked, and that's reason I made mistake." "Yes, you look as if you had been lifting a good deal," she quietly answered, as she returned to her pillow.

A NEW fence for a front yard has been invented, which obviates the necessity for a gate. It is safe to say that it was invented by an old maid. If an old maid would invent anything, it would be a front yard fence without a gate. She's just mean enough to do it.

GEOGRAPHICAL: "Mention the names of the great explorers," said the teacher. "I only know one," returned the head boy of the class. "Well, tell us who it is," "Mamma," responded the scholar: "I see her exploring papa's pockets every morning before he gets up."

AN Iowa dog has cost its owner $950 in damages for bites, and the man declares that impecunious neighbors hang around on purpose to be bitten, knowing that he settled the claims promptly. It is hard to decide whether to class this as a fact or biting sarcasm.

A HARDENED old money-lender was at death's door. A priest exhorted him to confess and presented to him a silver crucifix. The sick man looked fixedly at the sacred enablem and said to the priest, "I'm afraid I can't lend you much on that." And these were his last words.

THEOLOGICAL: A minister had preached an hour; then he remarked: "Another wide field opens from the subject in another direction." Just then an old colored saint ejaculated: "Please, Lord, shut up de bars!"

"HE SAYS IT IS TRUE.

SENECA FALLS, Nov, 9, 1876.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir:—As you are an entire stranger to me, I want you to know what VEGETINE has done for me. Only those who have been raised from death's door can know the value of such a good medicine. I am 58 years of age. Three years ago I was taken sick with what the doctors called Lumbago. For weeks I was confined to my bed. I had three different physicians, without any help. I received no relief; I was a great sufferer; finally I became entirely helpless. The last doctor told me there was no help; he said he might possibly save my life by injecting morphine in my arms and legs. The encouragement for saving my life by having this done was so small a chance I could not consent to run the risk. About this time my son read your advertisement in our paper a testimony of a person who had been very sick with about the same complaint, and was cured. My son went right away to the apothecary store and bought a bottle of VEGETINE. Before I had used the first bottle I found great relief; I could move myself in bed. After taking three bottles I was able to sit up and move about my room. I continued taking the VEGETINE, and I was in a few weeks restored to my former health. The VEGETINE saved my life after the physicians said there was no help for me. I have had no doctor since. If I feel unwell I take a dose of VEGETINE, and I recommend it to my friends.

Your VEGETINE ought to be in every family. My doctor was surprised to see me in good health. He says "VEGETINE is a good medicine." I tell him it cured me. He says, "It is true." I cannot feel too thankful. Very grateful yours,

MRS. CATHERINE COONS,
Seneca Falls, Seneca County, N. Y.

Will Cure Canker Humor.

ROCKPORT, MASS., March 31, 1876.

H. R. STEVENS:—

Sir:—Last fall my husband got me two bottles of your VEGETINE to take for the Canker Humor, which I have had in my stomach for several years. I took it, and the result was very satisfactory. I have taken a good many remedies for the Canker Humor, and none seemed to help me but VEGETINE There is no doubt in my mind that every one suffering with Canker Humor can be cured by taking VEGETINE. It gave me a good appetite, and I feel better in every respect.

Yours, with respect,
MRS. ELIZA ANN POOLE.

Water glass, is used for a large number of purposes in the arts, but it might find many every day uses if it were better known. Mixed with chalk it forms, on drying, a compact, marble-like stone; bone ash, zinc white, and magnesia, with water glass, form similar stones. Ransome's artificial stone is prepared by mixing sand with water glass solution to form a plastic mass, which is pressed into the required shapes and then placed in a solution of calcium chloride; silicate of calcium is formed and cements the grains together, the chloride of sodium formed at the same time being removed by washing with water. With clay, lime, sand, cement, etc., soluble glass enters largely into the composition of many of the patented artificial stones, plastic ties, slates and so on. The detergent properties of water-glass make it an excellent securing material, and it is used to a great extent in the manufacture of most of the common kinds of soap.

Public speakers and lecturers can use their voice continuously and with safety by taking small or alterative doses of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Recent investigation respecting the chemical constituents of tobacco fumes, confirms the olden view of the presence of nicotine. It has, however, been ascertained that nicotine appears mostly in the form of salts, having picoline for their base. Other substances of a similar composition are generated in the act of smoking, which seem to form under the influence of the varying quantity of water in the tobacco and its mode of combustion. Thus the use of the pipe develops the highly diffusible and narcotic pyridin, while cigar smoking gives rise to larger quantities of colidin. There exists only one remedy for the cure of chronic tobacco poisoning, but that is so prompt and efficacious that none other is needed. Unfortunately there exists also a very great and frequently an insurmountable prejudice among smokers against its employment. It is the abstinence from tobacco.

The Popular Demand.

So great has been the popular demand for the celebrated Kidney-Wort, that it is having an immense sale from Maine to California. Some have found it inconvenient to prepare it from the dry compound. For such the proprietors now prepare it in liquid form. This can be procured at the druggists. It has precisely the same effect as the dry, but is very concentrated so that the dose is much smaller.—Lowell Mail.

Prof. Alexander Wilson, of Dublin, has calculated the amount of sugar contained in the calyces of different kinds of flowers, and the proportion of honey which insects can extract from it. He calculates that about 125 clover blossoms contain one gramme of sugar. As each blossom consists of about 60 calyces, at least 125,000 by 60 or 7, 500,000 calyces must be rifled to afford a kilogramme of sugar, and as honey contains seventy-five per cent of sugar, it requires 5,600,000 calyces of clover to yield a kilogramme of the former. Hence we can imagine the countless number of flowers that bees must visit to be able to stock their hives.

I'm all Played Out.

is a common complaint. If you feel so, get a package of Kidney Wort and take it and you will at once feel its tonic power. It renews the healthy action of the kidneys, bowels and liver, and thus restores the natural life and strength to the weary body. It can now be had in either dry or liquid form, and in either way is always prompt and efficient in action.—New Bedford Standard.

Timely Discovery.

"Great men are not always wise, neither do the aged understand judgment."—Job. This afflicted patriarch might have known of the useless and painful treatment of "Emerods" in his own time, but his words would have been even more applicable had his prophetic eye looked down the long vista of medical history and witnessed the cruel, absurd and ineffectual treatment of Piles by the many schools of "great and aged professors," until at last a disgusted doctor pronounced piles "the opprobrium of the art. Dr. Silsbee has put to shame, by the simplicity and excellence of his great pile remedy, not only the whole family of quack nostrums, whose name is legion, but the pretended wisdom of the medical profession. This Anakesis (or pile remedy), is simple and easy of application, gives instant relief, and by combining the merits of a poultice to soothe, an instrument to hold up and compress the tumors, and a skilfully devised medicine, applied directly to the diseased parts ultimately cures the worst cases of piles and keeps them cured. Half a million of persons pronounce Anakesis, the most beneficent discovery of the age, and we believe them. Anakesis. Dr. S. Silsbee's External Pile Remedy is sold by all first-class druggists. ## COMFORT BY THE WAY.

The small boy's idea of genuine comfort and happiness was to be pitched into a pond of ice cream whose shores were made of sponge cake. His misery was the absence of these pleasant substances. That boy simply represents humanity. Comfort is appreciated by contrast—we enjoy a thing in proportion to our conception of the disadvantages of our deprivation thereof. This applies to material things as well as to immaterial considerations. The icicle, whose appearance in the wintry cold and bleakness sends the shiver of discomfort through the observer, would suggest notions of the coolest comfort in hot and sultry days of the summer season. And in both seasons—that in which the icicle flourishes best and in the one wherein its absence is conspicuous—that most uncomfortable and torturing disease, rheumatism, plentifully abounds, causing pain and agony to myriads of people. And yet it need not be thus afflictive if sufferers would only use ST. JACOBS OIL, the surest, safest and speediest remedy in the whole world for the eradication and cure of rheumatism and all painful ailments. The following from the Rochester (Ind.) Sentinel shows how some people attend to their rheumatism: "When a young husband had gone from home, and with fond solicitude telegraphed his little wife—'What have you for breakfast and how's the baby?' he received the brief, practical and suggestive reply—'Buckwheat cakes and the measles.' We have the report of a case in our midst, not where measles was in the bill of fare, but where sciatic rheumatism confined Mr. J. Dawson, the well-known Rochester druggist, to his room for a long period. It was stated to our reporter in the following words: 'The senior member of this firm was attacked with sciatic rheumatism about December 10th last, and for four weeks succeeding Feb. 10th, could scarcely leave his room. He used ST. JACOBS OIL, and is now able to be at his place of business, feeling not much the worse for his recent affliction. The inference is convincing. The run which ST. JACOBS OIL is having is, we say, unprecedented, and the article is rapidly displacing all other rheumatic remedies as fast as its virtues become known.

"Edgar T. Paige, Esq., druggist, writes us from Chicopee Falls," says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, "that Mr. Albert Guenther, under Wild's Hotel, has used that remarkable remedy, ST. JACOBS OIL, for a severe case of rheumatism, and it cured him as if by magic."

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES! WHY?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and Female Complaints.

SEE WHAT PEOPLE SAY:

Eugene B. Stork, of Junction City, Kansas, says, Kidney-Wort cured him after regular Physicians had been trying for four years.

Mrs. John Arnall, of Washington, Ohio, says her boy was given up to die by four prominent physicians and that he was afterwards cured by Kidney-Wort.

M. M. B. Goodwin, an editor in Chardon, Ohio, says he was not expected to live, being bloated beyond belief, but Kidney-Wort cured him.

Anna L. Jarrett of South Salem, N. Y., says that seven years suffering from kidney troubles and other complications was ended by the use of Kidney-Wort.

John B. Lawrence of Jackson, Tenn., suffered for years from liver and kidney troubles and after taking "barrels of other medicines," Kidney-Wort made him well.

Michael Coto of Montgomery Center, Vt., suffered eight years with kidney difficulty and was unable to work. Kidney-Wort made him "well as ever."

Pure blood makes sound flesh, strong bone and a clear skin. If you would have your flesh firm, your bones sound without caries, and your complexion fair, use Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent.

A remedy composed of ingredients of extraordinary medical properties essential to purify, heal, repair and invigorate the broken-down and wasted body—QUICK, PLEASANT, SAFE and PERMANENT is its treatment and cure.

No matter by what name the complaint may be designated, whether it be Scrofula, Consumption, Syphilis, Ulcers, Sores, Tumors, Boils, Erysipelas, or Salt-Rheum, diseases of the Lungs, Kidneys, Bladder, Womb, Skin, Liver, Stomach or Bowels, either chronic or constitutional, the virus of the disease is in the BLOOD which supplies the waste, and builds and repairs these organs and wasted tissues of the system. If the blood is unhealthy, the process of repair must be unsound.

The Sarsaparillian Resolvent not only is a compensating remedy, but secures the harmonious action of each of the organs. It establishes throughout the entire system functional harmony, and supplies the blood-vessels with a pure and healthy current of new life. The skin, after a few days use of the Sarsaparillian, becomes clear and beautiful. Pimples, Blotches, Black Spots and Skin Eruptions are removed; Sores and Ulcers soon cured. Persons suffering from Scrofula, Eruptive Diseases of the Eyes, Mouth, Ears, Legs, Throat and Glands, that have accumulated and spread, either from uncured diseases or mercury, or from the use of Corrosive Sublimate, may rely upon a cure if the Sarsaparillian is continued a sufficient time to make its impression on the system.

FEVER and AGUE cured for 50 cents. There is not a remedial agent in this world that will cure Fever and Ague, and other Malarious, Bilious, Scarlet, Typhoid, Yellow and other fevers (aided by Radway's Pills) so quickly as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

It will in a few moments, when taken according to directions, cure Cramps, Spasms, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Wind in the Bowels, and all Internal Pains.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water. It is better than French brandy or bitters as a stimulant.

Miners and Lumbermen should always be provided with it.

CAUTION.

All remedial agents capable of destroying life by an overdose should be avoided. Morphine, opium, strychnine, arnica, hyosciamus, and other powerful remedies, does at certain times, in very small doses, relieve the patient during their action in the system. But perhaps this second dose, if repeated, may aggravate and increase the suffering, and another dose cause death. There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like Radway's Ready Relief will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the least difficulty in either infant or adult.
